

From: [REDACTED]
Received: 5/7/2010 6:00:29 PM
To: iqpers@iqpers.eop.gov
Subject: The Administration

I wrote the White House last year when I kept seeing the President stepping off airplanes holding a basketball. I would like to make a modest proposal because I see far too many statements and ideas which are being seized by those who see the President as someone without the knowledge or the advisors to run this country.

Here are just a few of the recent gaffes which I daresay I could have questioned prior to the statement coming out:

1. GM repaid their loan.

By this distortion, i.e., repaying with another TARP loan, you have set yourself up as someone who plays loosely with the truth - and that's putting it mildly.

2. Confusing Cinco de Mayo as a real Mexican holiday when it's popularity is due to marketing by Corona.

3. Rein in Mr. Holder re trying terrorist bombers in NYC, even after the latest abortive bomb try in Times Square. Make a decision - have a tribunal at Gitmo for gosh sakes, then close the place.

4. Do not ever have another "beer summit" - this was an embarrassment. If you want to support an old friend, fine, do it privately. When the country has a serious problem, the President cautions not to rush without knowing the facts but he condemned the Princeton police on TV prior to knowing the facts - great for GOP tv ads in 2011 but not much else. As a pundit said, great, solve a problem with alcohol!

5. President Bush was castigated for not visiting New Orleans sooner than he did... while Nashville certainly isn't as bad, there seems to be no thought to going there - even though there was loss of life which there was not in the oil spill.

6. Speaking of the oil spill, lots of blame being heaped on BP but you know there was an "in-situ burn" plan drawn up by Clinton Admin for this very thing and for whatever reason the burn plan wasn't implemented - black smoke and soot are nothing compared to the loss of wetlands, beaches and fishing and tourism industries.

7. Please, Please - quit making public statements about everyone working together then turning around and ridiculing the GOP, the Tea Party, Fox News, etc. - this makes YOU look bad.

Sir, PLEASE take this under advisement - there apparently is no one on your staff who is willing to speak up - I'm an [REDACTED]

P6/b(6)

==== Original Formatted Message Starts Here ====

IPAddress: [REDACTED]
Date: May 7 2010 5:59PM
ContactUsID: 8906704

<APP>CUSTOM
<PREFIX></PREFIX>
<FIRST>Lawrence</FIRST>
<LAST>Arway</LAST>
<MIDDLE>W.</MIDDLE>

<SUFFIX></SUFFIX>
<ADDR1>[REDACTED]</ADDR1>
<ADDR2></ADDR2>
<CITY>[REDACTED]</CITY>
<STATE>[REDACTED]</STATE>
<ZIP>[REDACTED]</ZIP>
<COUNTRY></COUNTRY>
<PHONE>[REDACTED]</PHONE>
<EMAIL>[REDACTED]</EMAIL>
<ISSUE>W_POTUS</ISSUE>
<ISSUE>W_NONPOL_ADMIN</ISSUE>
<ISSUE></ISSUE>
<MSG>

P6/b(6)

I wrote the White House last year when I kept seeing the President stepping off airplanes holding a basketball. I would like to make a modest proposal because I see far too many statements and ideas which are being seized by those who see the President as someone without the knowledge or the advisors to run this country.

Here are just a few of the recent gaffes which I daresay I could have questioned prior to the statement coming out:

1. GM repaid their loan.

By this distortion, i.e., repaying with another TARP loan, you have set yourself up as someone who plays loosely with the truth - and that's putting it mildly.

2. Confusing Cinco de Mayo as a real Mexican holiday when it's popularity is due to marketing by Corona.

3. Rein in Mr. Holder re trying terrorist bombers in NYC, even after the latest abortive bomb try in Times Square. Make a decision - have a tribunal at Gitmo for gosh sakes, then close the place.

4. Do not ever have another "beer summit" - this was an embarrassment. If you want to support an old friend, fine, do it privately. When the country has a serious problem, the President cautions not to rush without knowing the facts but he condemned the Princeton police on TV prior to knowing the facts - great for GOP tv ads in 2011 but not much else. As a pundit said, great, solve a problem with alcohol!

5. President Bush was castigated for not visiting New Orleans sooner than he did... while Nashville certainly isn't as bad, there seems to be no thought to going there - even though there was loss of life which there was not in the oil spill.

6. Speaking of the oil spill, lots of blame being heaped on BP but you know there was an "in-situ burn" plan drawn up by Clinton Admin for this very thing and for whatever reason the burn plan wasn't implemented - black smoke and soot are nothing compared to the loss of wetlands, beaches and fishing and tourism industries.

7. Please, Please - quit making public statements about everyone working together then turning around and ridiculing the GOP, the Tea Party, Fox News, etc. - this makes YOU look bad.

Sir, PLEASE take this under advisement - there apparently is no one on your staff who is willing to speak up - I'm an [REDACTED]

</MSG>

</APP>