Celebrating Women's History Month at the White House.doc

Marci,

I just spoke with your assistant and wanted to shoot you a quick email. Attached is an invitation to an upcoming event that Mrs. Obama is hosting at the White House on March 19th. There are two components to the event, and if your schedule allows you to join us for either, that would be wonderful. If you are able to join, please feel free to call me directly so that I can give you greater details on the overall event.

Best,

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

March 10, 2009

Dear Ms. Klein,

I would like to invite you to join First Lady Michelle Obama in celebrating Women's History Month at the White House in Washington, D.C. The First Lady believes that service in our communities is incredibly important. On March 19th, a select group of accomplished women have been asked to share their stories with young men and women at area schools in the Washington, D.C. area with the hopes of inspiring these students to achieve their dreams and aspirations. We would be delighted if you would join this group.

The women will be divided into teams and fan out across the area in the morning to speak at various schools. Following the morning activities, you will be invited to join First Lady Michelle Obama and senior White House women in hosting a dinner for talented juniors and seniors from local high schools. Each table will have approximately seven young women and three accomplished women.

We believe that this event along with your involvement will certainly help to showcase Women's History Month for all Americans. Thank you in advance for your participation. Additional details will follow shortly. If you have any questions, please call my assistant Sally Armbruster at 202-456-2301 or email at sarmbruster@who.eop.gov.

Sincerely,

Desirée Rogers
Social Secretary to the White House
