

Sent: Thu, 09 May 2013 17:20:08 -0400
From: Cora Currier <cora.currier@propublica.org>
To: "Hayden, Caitlin" <caitlin_m_hayden@nss.eop.gov>, "Hayden, Caitlin" </o=eop/ou=exchange administrative group /cn=recipients/cn=caitlin_m_hayden">
Subject: from ProPublica

Hi Caitlin,

Question for you: back in '09, President Obama pledged to order a review of the alleged massacre of Taliban prisoners in Afghanistan in November, 2001. (Generally known as the Dasht-e-leili massacre.) He said so in response to a New York Times report that no investigation had been allowed to proceed under the Bush administration.

It seems that since then, nothing more about this has been released to the public. Did the President in fact order a national security council review of this? Was an official investigation launched? To what end?

Hoping to file by early next week – if you could get back to me tomorrow I'd appreciate it.

Thank you,
Cora

ProPublica
55 Broadway, 23rd Fl.
New York, NY 10006
Office: 917 512 0228
Cell:

P6/b(6)