March 11, 2016

I send greetings to all those participating in the Congressional Brain Injury Task Force's Brain Injury Awareness Day on Capitol Hill.

As a Nation of dreamers and risk-takers, America invests in the strongest and boldest ideas before anyone else does, attracting the world's greatest scientists, researchers, and entrepreneurs. This incredible dynamism has always guided us forward, allowing us to create new realities and change the lives of people around the globe. Every courageous leap we have taken in the name of discovery has made us a world leader in innovation—but when it comes to the brain, a complete understanding of our humanity has yet to be uncovered.

Every year, over 1 million Americans—from the patriots who serve on our frontlines to the athletes, young and old, who play in our sports arenas—experience traumatic brain injury (TBI). On Brain Injury Awareness Day, we resolve to reverse the effects of TBI and to provide those affected with the care and support they need to lead safe, healthy lives. One of the major motivations behind the BRAIN Initiative, which my Administration launched in 2013, was to fight TBI. Much work remains, and in order to stay on the forefront of medical innovation, we must forge a future in which all people can overcome any disorder or condition that may hinder the way they live.

As you come together to encourage healing and to build a healthier tomorrow, I commend you all for your efforts.

Message – Congressional Brain Injury Task Force

Commented [NA1]: ABOUT: Brain Injury Task Force Website

Approximately 1.4 million Americans experience Traumatic Brain Injury (TBI) each year and an estimated 3.2 million Americans are living with long-term, severe disabilities as a result of brain injury. Another 360,000 men and women are estimated to have been inflicted by a TBI in the conflicts in Iraq and Afghanistan. The national cost of TBI is estimated to be $60 billion annually. That is why I founded the Congressional Brain Injury Task Force in 2001. Co-Chaired by Rep. Thomas J. Rooney of Florida, the task force will serve as a clearinghouse of information for Congress and the public. It will promote full funding for the TBI Act and other brain injury research programs, and provide guidance to federal agencies on policies and proposed rulemakings.

Ideas are what power our economy. It's what sets us apart. It's what America has been all about. We have been a nation of dreamers and risk-takers; people who see what nobody else sees sooner than anybody else sees it. We do innovation better than anybody else -- and that makes our economy stronger. When we invest in the best ideas before anybody else does, our businesses and our workers can make the best products and deliver the best services before anybody else.

And because of that incredible dynamism, we don't just attract the best scientists or the best entrepreneurs -- we also continually invest in their success...

...As humans, we can identify galaxies light years away, we can study particles smaller than an atom. But we still haven't unlocked the mystery of the three pounds of matter that sits between our ears.
